Words from the Alsherjargothi

Midsummer has always been a time of new beginnings for the AFA and this year is no exception. At one time Midsummer was the only "National" event the AFA hosted, and in a way, it marked the beginning of each new AFA year. At Midsummer 2016, I was elevated to Alsherjargothi and Midsummer 2023 marked 7 years for me in this position and started my 8th Alsherjargothic year. Beginnings are a special time to think and to evaluate things, for me and I believe, for all of us. Whenever we take stock of things, it is valuable to focus on the fundamentals.

Asatru is the word that defines our faith. Asatru is the word that defines our lives.

Asatru is the word that defines US. Asatru literally means "loyal to the Æsir". It should be obvious (but we all need to be reminded of it) that Asatru should be about the Æsir... not about what's cool, not about what our buddies think, and not about what is most comfortable. The question at the front of our mind should always be "What do the Gods think?". When our Gods see us, how we look, how we dress, how we present ourselves... are they proud? When the Gods hear us speak... are they proud? When the Gods evaluate our deeds... are they proud?

The AFA is our church, not a club. Asatru is a religion, not a political or social accessory. It is time to refocus. In all we do and all we are... we shall strive to make our Gods proud.

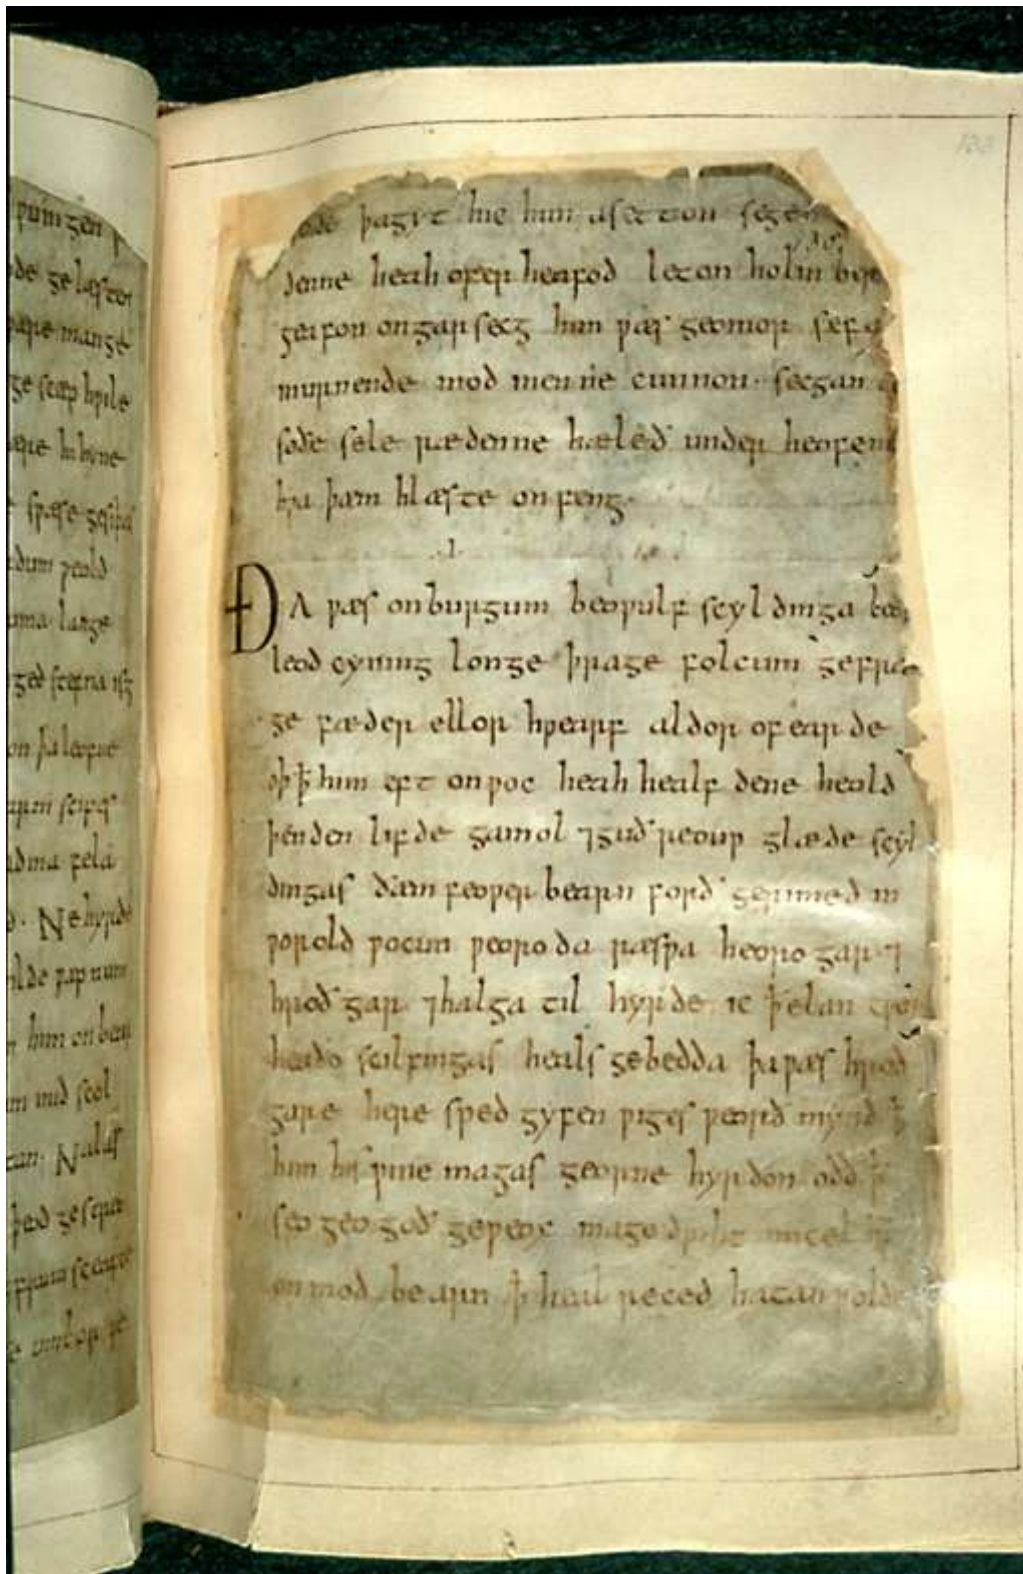

Hail the Æsir!

Words from Our Witan

Beowulf, Introduction

One of the very first recommendations I have when folk ask me for my "reading list" is Beowulf. Many of the more advanced and academic works often reference or cite Beowulf, so, in my opinion, it's one of the most important works to start with. It is the "Gateway Lore"...

Beowulf is one of the most translated (and debated) pieces of Old English literature. Although the original manuscript is believed to have been composed between 950-1000 during the conversion of our people to Christianity, it is argued that the story itself originated as an oratory tradition far earlier and that the pagan elements and themes can still be seen in throughout the poem.

The original manuscript used for translation is referred to as the Cotton Vitellius A XV. The manuscript was found in the library of Sir Robert Cotton, an antiquarian. Sir Cotton's library was lined with cases of manuscripts, and on the top of each case were busts of Roman Emperors. The bound manuscript containing Beowulf was found in the case with Emperor Vitellius' bust, on the first shelf (A) and the 15th tome in.

Although the manuscript was damaged by fire in the 1730s, modern technology has been utilized to read previously unseen text. The same technology has also been used to determine where the manuscript was changed from its (possible) original version.

Although heavily "Christianized", traditions and culture of our people are still relevant and play center stage in the poem. Courage, nobility, honor, fidelity, and reputation are only a handful of recognizable themes that we can appreciate.

A few things to know when starting your study of Beowulf:

- The story takes place in the late 5th to early 6th century in Scandinavia
- It is important to keep track of the genealogy as you go along (just trust me)
- The narrator is to be trusted. Unlike modern novels or scripts, the narrator does not have agenda.
- Try to apply what you "see" into Asatru themes: loyalty, hospitality, honor. Do not let the word "God" deter you from reading an outstanding preservation of Anglo-Saxon culture, ritual, and tradition.

Stay tuned for more Beowulf in upcoming articles in The Runestone.

The Soul Complex, Pt 2 – The Ek

The Ek, or ego, is the second part of the soul complex listed in Founder Stephen McNallen's book, Asatru, A Native European Spirituality. In many modern religions, the Ego is seen as a bad thing, to be surrendered to God or a higher power in order to transcend. You'll see it spoken of as a bad thing in the mundane as well. Often bodybuilders and elite athletes will tell you to "leave your ego at the door" or "your ego is holding you back." In Asatru we reject this notion.

Ek, or Ego comes from the meaning "I" or "I, myself." The German word for "i" is "Ich" which is also from the Old Norse "ek."

It's what defines you as an individual, what makes you unique among the collective. It is what drives the desire for personal freedom, a rejection of submission, and encourages us each to stand out amongst the whole of our tribe or kindred, or Church. A poorly developed ego is part of the soul sickness that our Founder often speaks of. We are taught in the modern world that the smallest accomplishment should be rewarded, that participation is enough, and that standing out is poorly looked upon. In Asatru, what feeds your Ek, your ego, is accomplishment through Victory. That we each share in those victories, and that you should absolutely be proud of all you accomplish. In fact, I often encourage this amongst our folk, if you boast about any accomplishment, for example, buying your first home, getting a promotion at work, proposing to your sweetheart.. All these things can inspire others to take strides toward accomplishing something great. It's Not an inflated ego that makes us boast, it is a healthy one. Boasting about what you "are going to do" is the result of a poorly trained ego. "Planning to win" isn't the same as winning.

In the (Asatru) view, the ego or ek is only "bad" if it is limited by our small, superficial notion of who we are. Even then it is not evil, only incomplete- for even a restricted sense of self is better than "becoming one with God," Dissolving into the infinite sea," or “merging with the Oversoul.”

Stephen McNallen, Asatru, A Native European Spirituality.

In the above passage, Father McNallen is referring to the need by Modern society to just merge, or or be consumed by the flowing tide of modernity, that you are not special.

Be exceptional. Stand out among your peers. The pursuit of sameness, of equality, is the destruction of excellence. Train yourself, your ek, to be who you were born to be... a man or woman of exceptional character, with a well trained ego, who looks to climb higher and higher and stand tall among the world. This is your destiny, it is OUR destiny.

A caution; nothing here should be construed as advocating the narrow, deceptive and self-satisfied glorification of one’s self. There is all the difference in the world between egoism and egotism. One is puffery, and the other genuine development. Those who have come far are humbled by how far they have to go, and they will not belittle those who have accomplished less.

Stephen McNallen, Asatru, A Native European Spirituality

Words from Our Gothar

“Warrior Mindset” in the Wolf Age

In Asatru, we venerate all of our noble ancestors, whether they be farmers or preachers or schoolteachers. However, there is one class of Aryan who often stands tallest in our legends: the warrior.

The general view of our faith is plastered with pictures of warriors, from the Celtic rebels of Queen Boudicca to the Varangian Guard, from the united Germans under Prince Arminius to the Anglo-Danish huscarls of King Harold Godwinson. The list goes on and on, but we often venerate these distant heroes more than our less distant ancestors of the last few centuries. The picture and poetry of the martial archetype pervades the Aryan zeitgeist, and likely always will.

We treasure and hold high the warriors of old, as they put their very lives on the line for things that mattered. The warrior is timeless, because he fights for that which is timeless. The warrior is virtuous, because he fights for virtue. The warrior is immortal, because his deeds never die.

With all of this being said, allow me to bring us back into the present, hopefully with equally articulate wording!

How do we carry the warrior with us into our modern world? How do we strive for the things that matter in a productive way? How do we adopt that warrior mindset in the 21st century? After all, doesn't a warrior need a battle to fight?

That battle is life in the Wolf Age. We can speak on the woes of the world until Ragnarok, but I won't do that here. If you're reading this, you're aware of what challenges the modern world holds for our Folk. You're aware of all the obstacles facing you in your modern life. You know that you can't just smash through them with an axe like a Viking, or parry and slash at them with sword and shield like a knight. What you CAN do, however, is keep marching forward, like an Aryan.

Keep marching forward; over the mountains of toil, across the valleys of sadness, through the forests of doubt, and over the rivers of emotion. Our ancestors, warriors or not, never gave up. They marched on, navigating whatever obstacles presented themselves. This was not always as glamorous as battle, but it was just as important. Obstacles are meant to be defeated, just as battles are meant to be won. That is the warrior mindset.

Remember who you are, and keep marching forward.

Our Germanic World-View in America's Founding

Everyone has heard America referred to as a “Christian Nation”. Setting the etymology of the word ‘nation’ aside, most of our founding fathers considered themselves Deists.

While the majority of settlers certainly considered themselves Christians our Germanic world-view and folk traditions were still firmly in place in the 1700s. Focusing on Benjamin Franklin in particular we see our ancestral wisdom echoed in his writings and his life.

Until a split with his parent’s Puritan faith it was planned that he would attend Harvard to become a pastor.

In 1727 at 21 Franklin formed the Junto club, a form of männerbund. The founding members were craftsmen, printers, surveyors, cabinet makers, clerk, and a bartender... not top bankers and merchants in the colonies. Membership was based on a “spirit of inquiry when it came to politics, philosophy and a desire to better themselves and the community.”

“Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy wealthy, and wise.” is Franklin’s most famous quote. It’s similarity to verse 58 of the Havamal is striking.

He must early go forth | who fain the blood
Or the goods of another would get,
The wolf that lies idle | shall win little meat,
Or the sleeping man success.

But this is not the only instance. In his Moral Improvement Project we see a sort of Nine Noble Virtues.

Temperance – “Eat not to dullness; drink not to elevation” combines both verses 19 and 20.

The greedy man | if his mind be vague,
Will eat till sick he is...
Shun not the mead | but drink in measure;
Speak to the point or be still.

Silence – “Speak not but what might benefit others or yourself. Avoid trifling conversation” is touched on in verse 19 as well, but is even better expressed in verse 27.

A witless man | when he meets with men,
Had best in silence abide;
For no one shall find | that nothing he knows,
If his mouth is not open too much.

Industry – “Lose no time, but always be employed in something useful; cut off all unnecessary actions” is literally one of our Noble Virtues, Industriousness we get from verse 59.

He must early go forth | whose workers are few,
Himself his work to seek;
Much remains undone | for the morning-sleeper,

For the swift is wealth half won.

This is not to say Benjamin Franklin was even aware of the lore, but that the ancestral memory still held these ideals. That as recently as the founding of America our gods were shining through the men who built this country.

Thomas Jefferson likewise recognized our ancestral world-view when he spoke of what guided our founding documents "...the common law existed while Anglo-Saxons were yet pagans, at a time when they had never yet heard the name of Christ pronounced or knew that such a character existed."

Moreover, he wanted the seal of these United States of America to be Hengist and Horsa, the Germanic brothers who is said to have led the Angels, Saxons, and Jutes in their invasion of Britain in the 5th century. According to the historian Bede, Hengist and Horsa were the sons of Wictgils, son of Witta, son of Wecta, son of Woden.

That's right, Jefferson wanted to make the seal of this nation the descendants of Woden!

So, on Independence Day; remember our ancestors, the founders of this nation, did not declare independence from our folk-ways or our faith.

Raise a horn to Woden!

Hail All-Father!

Hail the Founding Fathers!

Spirituality vs Religion

Spirituality contrasts entirely the systems of anti-natural dogmatism, in which spirituality is separated from life and in permanent conflict with other parts to divide reality into which is intended to render people mentally confused, disturbed in order to ;make them easily controlled.

This is what Imperialist cults do when it's goal is to enslave humanity, make everyone join the flock or cult in the name of religion or as the case today the cult the religion of ultra liberalism a new religion.

The word holy as I see it, has been co-opted from our Elder Way, which the word holy meant wholeness of our Being, HAMR-the body, HUER-mind, will, intellect, and OND-/ANDI, soul, spirit, the vital breath. The bringing together of this reality, our Being, is the true meaning of Holy.

Guido and the Armanen Runes

Hails from the Great Pacific Northwest! The Midsummer celebration at Odinhof this year was an amazing experience as always. The energy there has been evolving over time to become a family centered atmosphere which is great to see. The blots to Odin and Baldr were stirring as led by the Alsherjargothi Matt Flavel and Gothi Trent East. This year Witan Brandy Callahan led the women in a special moving chant calling our folk home in old Norse, and I have to say that it was the magical moment during the midsummer celebration. I also had the honor of giving a presentation about the Armanen runes on Friday afternoon and I would like to speak about them here.

The Armanen Runes are Guido von Lists' divinely inspired interpretations of the spell songs of Odin. During an extended period of blindness following surgery on his eyes, he had an unverified personal gnosis of these poems' meaning, believing them to be the original language of the Aryan people. If one studies and meditates upon Guido von Lists' Armanen runes and their meanings it will lead that person to an enlightenment as to their own divine nature.

My own personal gnosis was with the Elder futhark. The Elder futhark runes each have poems associated with each separate character. Meditating upon these poems and their shapes have revealed to me that each of these rune staves have a vibrational frequency associated with it like the keys on a piano. This frequency is generated with intense feeling and emotion, which is then directed at the object of desire. For example, Fehu is the frequency of value. If you had $10,000 in your hand what is the feeling that is generated? That feeling is that of value in that you can make things happen, you can cause change with it. If you take this feeling and encapsulated yourself in it without any distraction and with high intensity you are creating magic. You will without a doubt get a check in the mail, or a rise in social status, of course you must not have any doubt at all about what you are doing but accept it as a fact. If you think "this won't work", "or this is silly", it will destroy what you are trying to accomplish. You must correct those negative thoughts with positivity and the positive thoughts must outweigh the negative for your magic to work.

The difference between the Armanen runes and the Elder Futhark is for example the difference between a car and a tool. You can build things with tools including the car, but the already finished car will drive you around and you might not know how the car works, but it does.

The individual frequencies of the elder futhark runes allow you to micromanage when implementing your will here in the world of Midgard. The Armanen runes followed to enlightenment, allow the forces of the Nordic God to provide you the things you require in this world, as you have become a higher evolved being in that you are an instrument of the Nordic god.

It has been several years now since my spiritual rebirth here in Midgard, and I would like to say that I have become an instrument of divine consciousness, but it seems to be an almost impossible thing to accomplish. However, I have learned many things in the past 5 years and one of them is persistence. When things seem impossible in all reality they are not, all things are possible, and it depends where you place your energy. If you stumble in your practice, get up and try again and at some point, a breakthrough will occur, or opportunities will present themselves and help with one's own evolution.

I will end this article with Meister Guido von List's Hagal rune – “introspective awareness, the consciousness to bear his Nordic God with all his qualities within himself, produces a high self confidence in the power of the personal spirit which bestows magical power, a magical power which dwells within all persons, and a power which can persuade a strong spirit to believe in it without any doubt. Borne by this consciousness which has no doubt inherent, the chosen one controls the physical and spiritual realms, which he contains comprehensively, and thereby he feels himself to be All Powerful. Therefore: Harbor the All in yourself, and you will control the All!

Hail the Gods! Hail the Folk! Hail the AFA!

The Quest for Freyshof

“Njördr in Nóatún begot afterward two children: the son was called Freyr, and the daughter Freyja; they were fair of face and mighty. Freyr is the most renowned of the Æsir; he rules over the rain and the shining of the sun, and therewithal the fruit of the earth; and it is good to call on him for fruitful seasons and peace. He governs also the prosperity of men.”

– Gylfaginning

Freyshof Fund – Asatru Folk Assembly \(runestone.org\)

This sacred quest has had a great start so far! The generosity has been amazing, as always!

This is the list of things that need to happen before we can make Freyshof a reality:

1. We need to pay off Njörðshof.
 - The first of 2 loans have been paid off!
 - We now owe $109,370 on our remaining loan.
2. We need to raise our monthly donation average by 4.2%.
 - This is membership dues/hoftollar plus other donations.
3. We need to locate a suitable property.
4. We need to find lenders and build a war chest.

This is not a "quick" process so stay patient and resolute. As we progress, I will keep you all updated on our progress!

Alexander Rud Mills - July 9th

Alexander Rud Mills was born in Forth, Tasmania, and lived from 1885-1964. He was the guiding light for the foundations of Asatru in Australia.

In 1933 Rud Mills began writing books about our faith and in 1936 he founded the Anglecyn Church of Odin. Mills was able to build a solid Asatru community, but during the turbulent times of the Second World war, Rud Mills was bitterly persecuted by his government, and the community that he built suppressed. With no evidence against him of illegal activity, Alexander Rud Mills was imprisoned. It was nearly a decade before Mills was released and despite all of his efforts, he was unable to revive his church to its former glory.

All was not lost, however. Alexander Rud Mills's many publications and his passion lived on and inspired a new generation. In the 1970s a group of Odinist Students at the University of Melbourne campaigned to have Odinism recognized as a formal religion in Australia, hoping to be able to protect the faith from the same persecution that Mills suffered. It took almost two decades, but by the early '90s, Odinism was granted religious status in Australia. Alexander Rud Mills's vision also, notably, inspired Else Christensen, who was a leading voice of Asatru in North America.

So, what can we learn from this story?

Alexander Rud Mills didn't live to see the culmination of all of his hard work. When he died Odinism and Asatru were still a repressed faith in his homeland. Even without reward and recognition, he worked until his death, to try and revive the ancient folkway. And he did succeed. Could he have ever imagined how far-reaching his influence would be while he lived? Despite being imprisoned and persecuted for his beliefs, Alexander continued. Even without knowing that his hard work would bear fruit, he continued. He didn't give up in the face of a thankless, and dauntless task. He didn't let his ego or his own self-importance stop him from doing what he believed he needed to do. There were no rewards. There were no praises. There was nothing in it for him except the knowledge and the belief that he was doing the right thing for his folk.

Take from this story the need to remember that the bigger picture, even when we can't see it, is so much more important than just ourselves. We do what we are doing for our children and for their children so that when we are gone they have a foundation strong enough to hold them up and help them build better and stronger.

Holiday

Sigrblót - July 15th

Sigrblót literally means ‘Victory Blot’ and was celebrated by our ancestors in the early summer months. On the one hand, our ancestors were celebrating their victory over the harsh winter. Life had won. On the other hand, our ancestors performed blot to ask for victory. With the warm weather and the completion of the planting time the men often turned their minds to the duty of man. War. Practically speaking, summer was the better time to organize new campaigns and to set sail.

In our modern times, the vast majority of us are not familiar with war in a personal way. We do, however, all have our struggles. Sigrblót is a time to refocus. It is the time we can use to reorganize our priorities, to figure out the steps we need to take in order to reach our ultimate goals, and to break free from those that we struggle with.

One great way to celebrate Sigrblót is to offer a meal or some other item that you spent time making in thanks for the victory of life. Another option is to sacrifice a bladed weapon to the fire. A nice knife, for example, the blade dulled in battle so that it cannot be used against you (this is symbolic, of course), offered to the fire is a great way to ask our Gods for victory during the coming winter.

A gift for a gift.

Freyr's Harvest Feast in Montana | September 22nd-24th

> Get your tickets HERE! <

Freyr's Harvest Feast is the time to honor the Gods after a productive year's Harvest. On September 22nd through the 24th, we gather together for a weekend filled with activities that honor the three Vanir deities Njord, Freyr, and Freya.

During the course of the weekend, the folk gathers together for three blots using mead donated by Heinlein's Hollow Meadery.

In addition to blot, we see the display of Freyr's Proposal on stage (stage under construction), the viking games tournament with a prize to be revealed at the feast as well as access to the Drengir Dinner where all previous years' champions are invited out the day before the event.

In addition to brawn, the brain is tested in our Hnefatafl competition. While this competition is less fierce the bragging rights are still pretty good. Guests can also test their luck at a game of Orlog.

While there are plenty of contests, we still have plenty of time for several workshops, and speeches by guest speakers. Craftsmen will also bring their wares out to sell and authors to sign their books. An AFA benefiting auction will provide ample opportunities to walk away with a bag full of spoils.

The whole event is hosted on a private 20-acre ranch in a very low-population area. It's on the river and away from prying eyes. So not only do you get to enjoy a full event you can take in the beauty of rural Montana, enjoy the river and see what an AFA homestead looks like. An optional tour and sunbel will be held in the early morning for those wanting to see inside a proper meadery.

Lodging is straightforward as well. Bring an RV or tent and camp under the beautiful stars. Trust us when we say there's more of them visible than wherever you're coming from and on lucky nights the Northern Lights can be seen.

For those who want less rustic accommodations, there are numerous hotels and motels within a reasonable driving distance. In a few more years we will have cabins available too!

So that's lodging but everyone's got to eat right? Well, we got you covered as well. The meals are all plentiful and delicious, none more so than the feast itself. Last year we filled the dining hall with food and refreshments and this year we aim to provide just as much good fare. Five to ten gallons of mead will be provided for the feast according to turnout and the couples dance that follows is always great fun.

Remember to dress your best at the feast and dance but it won't all be formal. For the first blot, we go into the water to honor Njord. Ladies especially, make sure that you wear clothes that you're not only comfortable getting wet but are also modest when wet.

While the prospect of getting into the water in September might be daunting to some, the month has a wonderful climate. It has a high of 70 and a low of 50 with a nice midday breeze.

The truth is unless you come out you won't know what you're missing so don't make that mistake and come out to Freyr's Harvest Feast.

Please feel free to reach out to Tyler Heinlein at theinlein@runestone.org with any questions.

We look forward to seeing members and friends!

Your registration includes all workshops, lectures, meals, tenting, and of course our holy rituals. Only AFA members and vouched-for guests will be admitted to this event. Folkbuilder Spotlight

Michael Butler, Apprentice Folkbuilder, Indiana

I hope everyone had a wonderful Midsummer. I want to highlight this month Apprentice Folkbuilder Michael Butler of Indiana. I first met Michael, his lovely wife Lisa, and their kids at Winter Nights 11 in Ohio. I was immediately struck by how well they fit the ideal of Aryan nobility.

Later, when I spoke to Michael about his interest in becoming an Apprentice Folkbuilder for the AFA I was stuck by how levelheaded he is and how he understands the need for all of our Folk to come together to build the future, as he would put it.

Michael has been representing and organizing the AFA very well in Ohio, in Indiana and nearby. He has been responsive to a few shifts in focus given to him from both me and from Alsherjargothi Matt.

I am pleased to have Michael on the Þórshof North team, and I look forward to to his continued success

Hail Michael Butler!

Be A Doer

We need you to volunteer for the AFA!

Yes, you. We have work to do and need folk who are artists, editors, writers, accountants, lawyers, publicists, reputation managers, professionals of all manner, technical support, web developers, system admins, tradesmen, craftswomen, and more. See the list of amazing projects we have below. We will find a way for you to help our Folk.

Please email volunteer@runestone.org to help us make a difference in our world.

Baby Blanket Project

The Women of the AFA are proud to be continuing this fine and noble work we call the Baby Blanket Project! We're committed to ensuring all new babies born within the AFA are gifted a handmade — knit, crocheted, or woven — baby blanket! It's just our little way of celebrating each new addition to our folk!

This project has been going strong for nearly a year now, and has been a rousing success! The Ladies of the AFA have knitted, crocheted, and sewn beautiful baby blankets for over 20 of our littlest folk, with more on the way. They've been delivered everywhere from Alaska to Florida, California to Sweden!

If you are a member of the AFA who is expecting a baby, please let your Folkbuilder know so we can get a blanket to you. If you would like to contribute, either financially or by volunteering as a baby blanket crafter, let your Folkbuilder know about that as well, so he can get you in touch with the right people. It's so rewarding to see your handicraft being loved by our little heathens!

Would you like a blanket for your newborn, or to donate and help with yarn costs (yarn is expensive!)? Please email babyblanket@runestone.org today!

Folk Services

For some, it may be a natural disaster. For others an unexpected change in health, and for some just an unforeseen chain of events. Whatever the case may be sometimes we find ourselves in a sticky situation, and although we try and to work and do our best to pull ourselves out, sometimes we may need the help of our Folk community to give us a hand up...

That's when our folks Services Program comes in. We give one-time monetary grants to those members in need. These folks are so grateful and we know that once they get back on track they will contribute to this fund. For those that are able, we are in need of funds so we can be prepared for when these situations arise in our community. If you're able please place a donation today. Even a small donation adds up in the grand scheme of things and even $5 or $10 can help if enough people pitch in. If even a fraction of the folks who like the page did that each month, imagine the possibilities!

AFA Folk Services is intended to provide modest, one-time monetary grants to AFA members in dire need of basic services. It is also to be a source for referrals and information to help members get help beyond what the AFA can directly provide. For more information, please email folkservices@runestone.org.

Your contributions are earnestly solicited and of course, are tax-deductible! Please donate to Folk Services or one of our other AFA Fundraisers at <http://www.runestone.org/donate/>.

Thanks in advance!

Photo Donations

We have a real need for hi-res photographs of our members' gathering, being active in their kindreds, and showing what it means to live Asatru!

If you are willing to donate some hi-res photos for use in promotions such as the AFA Calendar, the AFA website, our publications, and more please email them to the AFA at photos@runestone.org. The larger the resolution the better, so please email them from the device where the photo was taken.

Eir's Blessings

Everybody needs a little extra help sometimes. Women, being the frithy creatures that we are, are uniquely suited to the task of manipulating energy for the purpose of healing. Magic, you could say.

Do you have a health concern and need a little extra energy? Are you battling with a mental illness like depression or PTSD? Is your baby having a hard time with teething? If you've answered yes at all, reach out to us. Once a month women of the AFA will get together to perform healing rituals all across the globe. If you would like to be included, please send a message to let us know!

At the same time, Women of the AFA! If you are interested in helping to create a frithful, healing magic, let us know! It's easy, but it makes a huge difference to those in our community who need our help!

You can reach us at EirsBlessings@runestone.org

Last Will and Testament

Recently, several members of our AFA family have passed beyond the veil. One was an old man in ill health, two were young men in the prime of life... all died with no legal will on record. Sadly, in two of these cases, our dead AFA members did not have their wishes respected regarding their funerals nor the final resting places of their remains.

We never know when tragedy will strike. We have a responsibility to our loved ones, we have a responsibility to our own legacies, to plan for our passing, and to make our wishes known. Planning for and contemplating our death is uncomfortable. Hopefully, we all have plenty of time for that down the road, but we can't count on that. Maybe we worry about expenses or hiring a lawyer. We all have excuses to put things off until later, unfortunately, sometimes the clock runs out before "later" happens.

We have found an amazing resource for our U.S. members to make legally binding wills in minutes online for free. This site also has resources to make Advanced Medical Directives and Powers of Attorney. It takes only minutes at <https://www.doyourownwill.com/>.

Please make your will today.

The AFA would like to collect signed original copies of wills for all our members and store them. We want to ensure that when members of our AFA family die, their wishes are honored. Please send these to:

Cooking for our Folk

Calling all Chefs

We are looking for recipes for a cookbook. We ask that the recipes were served to the folk at a Hof or moot. Please include where and when it was served.

cookbook@runestone.org

Cooking from the Heart. One of the first chefs I worked for told me that there are two main rules to cooking.

1. ALWAYS cook from the heart!
2. You must know the why of the rule before you can think about breaking it.

To this day, I still believe that number one is the most important; but two is the most valuable lesson. So, for example: why would you add flour to the mix when are you making Fried Potato balls? It doesn't add anything to the dish overall and in fact, it takes away flavor and disrupts texture. The reason is that what flour takes away: is moisture. It adds to the binder and liquid consumption.

So, what does this mean for the folk? Plan and simply don't take shortcuts. Whenever I pick up the knife and began cooking for the folk, I think of it as channeling the ancestors. Cooking reminds me of that age-old musing "I don't measure seasoning; I wait for the tap on the shoulder from the ancestors to tell me that's enough."

When you cook from the heart, people can tell. Don't cook out of spite or obligation. Cook for the folk because you want to! Find new recipes. Test them. Make them better. And when your heart tells you it is right...time to serve. If you have never made cookies from scratch...make them. Why not? Use the best ingredients you can afford (don't take out a second mortgage for this) but be proud to feed the folk.

When the recipe is right and you feed the folk, please send the recipe to cookbook@runestone.org with details of when and where it was served (Hof/moot).

Ancestral Food and Culture

Bread Pudding

Growing up outside of New Orleans food speaks to me, probably more than it should. Certain flavors and dishes become a part of who you are. I wish I could remember ½ the recipes and lesson my grandmother taught me in the kitchen. When it comes to cooking, more specially the old/traditional recipes, it becomes more of a process than a recipe.

Hummus is a great example of this. It's an easy dish, right? Well, it's easy to make, BUT hard to perfect. Why? It is all about the process. These processes are passed down from one line to another. I remember when I was learned to make hummus, the Egyptian man told me his "way of making it" had been passed down over the generations. Note: if you want to learn my process on how to make hummus call or email me.

Now, my grandmother is not an Egyptian man, but she did teach me to make one of my favorite desserts....Bread Pudding. Bread pudding is easy to get good, but once you get it perfect, you'll always chase perfect. Yes, bread pudding is a process driven recipe. Walking out of Midsummer at Njordshof on Saturday night knowing there was most of a basket of sliced, toasted, going stale bread in the kitchen, I was excited for the next morning. If you have never made bread pudding before. Start simple! Also don't fall for the gimmicky bread puddings, a simple, good, and well-balanced bread puddings tends to beat out all the gimmicky ones. Also, traditional speaking bread pudding contains alcohol in the liquid (all the alcohol cooks offs). Ok ill get off my soap box and get to the recipe/method.

Mead Bread Pudding

Set oven to 350

Bread (you want the two-day old stale stuff that is dry. The dryer the bread the more cream mixture it will absorb but the longer it will take to absorb it. It is a trade off on texture as well. The fresher the bread will give you more of a custardy finished product; whereas, stale bread, if not soaked to death, will give you a really neat layering of textures with a great crust. Remember this dish was created to find a use for bread that was cooked and going stale, not for fresh bread or crazy “bread like items” such as donuts or cinnamon rolls. Crud, soap box again) Your bread can be sliced, hand torn, or cubed. (I suggest French bread or something like a Baggett or Italian loaf. Yes use the crust.)

Liquid amounts depend on how much bread you have. You want to make enough liquid for the bread to be able to absorb most of it.

Mix together until it starts to kinda thicken.

Start with three eggs

Maybe a cup or two of heavy cream

Pinch or two of salt

Pinch or two of cinnamon and/or nutmeg

Cup? Of sugar

Cup or two? of (your favorite that is available) mead. (I suggest sweet mead but you will want to adjust your sugar to accommodate. You can use any hard sweet alcohol or liquor as long as it fits with the flavor you want.)

Yes, you can taste the liquid to see if it is to your liking.

Stir in the bread, wait a little bit, and stir the mixture again, wait a little bit and stir the mixture again. You are looking to make sure the bread absorbs most of the liquid. When you feel (not think) it is ready put it into a greased pan and bake it at 350. Baking time will differ based on the size of pans and amount. Pull when it is solid.

On the last stir I added in a small, chopped apple for pop of flavor and texture.

I was taught a valuable lesson years ago in regard to cooking: once you fully understand the rule, you will learn how to bend them. The more you cook and learn to create your own recipes like our ancestors did, the more you will learn that you can reuse recipes for similar things. This recipe can also be used to make French toast. You just wouldn't soak the bread, just dip it. You will want to favor egg over cream.

Any questions on this recipe/process feel free to call or email me.

People who currently work in the graphic design industry, or who work in metal fab industries as production artists or fabricators that want to step up their game by adding engineering to their resume would benefit from learning AutoCAD. There are a ton of other programs to use, but AutoCAD is the original one most all others have been based on and therefore the interface language across most of them is similar. If you know AutoCAD, it's a good stepping stone to other more advanced software. Generally speaking, 90% of engineering work that is done in the world CAN be done with AutoCAD so it's a good one to know.

1. General discussion on how AutoCAD engineering software is used in architecture, civil, and multiple engineering industries.
2. Blueprint reading for basic drafting layouts used in mechanical and architectural drafting
3. 2D vs 3D AutoCAD (Note: I can cover 2D AutoCAD but not 3D AutoCAD because I do not know 3D well enough to teach it.)
4. Internet sources I found useful for self education- these are mostly Youtube videos and the Autodesk website.

Saga's Literature Project

Saga needs your stories!

Do you have thoughts throughout your day or your studies that you ponder about our Gods, Goddesses, Heroes, or our Faith?

Do you and your family or Kindred have ways you like to venerate the Gods that are special to your own traditions?

How do you celebrate our Holidays or Days of Remembrance?

Do you have advice for those who have finally come home and wish you could have it handy to give to them?

Are you enrolled in Asatru Academy or partake in Lore Study or the Virtue Recovery Group?

The Asatru Folk Assembly wishes to create booklets, brochures, and pamphlets to have on hand in our Hofs and with membership Assembly-wide to give out to anyone with curiosity, whether they are a member or not.

This will be key in our studies as experienced practitioners, and should serve as a more efficient way than directing those with questions to our websites alone.

Saga needs your help! Submit any ideas or write-ups you have on the topics listed above to me, Apprentice Folkbuilder Shane Duffy at sduffy@runestone.org!

Note: All submissions are subject to review from myself and up the chain of command to the Alsherjargothi himself.

The Study Goes On!

We will resume lore study 7/11/23, beginning anew with the Heimskringla! Please feel free to review the Prose and in Poetic Eddas on the origins of the gods & on Asagard, for some great discussion material! As always off topic questions & curiosities are also welcomed at the end of our readings. As the upcoming books are fairly large, we will be doing our best to begin reading promptly, and to keep it 30mins or less at a time, so we have time for questions afterwards. We look forward to seeing you all again on Tuesday nights!

AFA Eldri: A Time and Place for Us!

Four fourteen weeks, a dedicated group of AFA members have gathered from the far corners of the country for our virtual Eldri meetings, hosted on Teams. The name is the Icelandic version for elders, which is our specific demographic. I created this MeWe group with associated chat to have our own place for topics pertinent to us.

They range from current news and cultural events to analysis of history, such as the War of Independence from England. Add in memories from our shared decades here in Midgard, and you'll see we find plenty to discuss.

I'm a strong supporter that EVERY member should have a MeWe account – especially for special interest groups like AFA Eldri. Our regular times are Fridays at 2:00 PT. It costs nothing -- and could bring great dividends to your life. If you're age fifty and older, we welcome you!

AFA Prison Ministry

The importance of this AFA Prison Ministry is so much more than just for those who are actually incarcerated, it benefits not only them as followers of Asatru but their families and loved ones on the outside as they will see the noticeable change in their demeanor and demand that our faith commands for them to lead a noble life. We all are future ancestors and will help them be examples of our faith and not be a burden or a product of recidivism.

We are compiling letters from prisoners that are Educational, Empowering, and Encouraging along with special spiritual writings from our Gothar to create a quarterly newsletter to be distributed to inmates, institutions, and jails. Our mission is not about providing free books or literature to bored prisoners who simply want free stuff. We intend on making real-world change for the better of our folk.

""No packed rooms in the prisons; in each institution I have only a few people; occasionally about a dozen, but 5-6 is more common. I certainly do not want the Fellowship to be a club for cons, or ex-cons; the advantage is that when in prison the inmates have time to discuss and digest what they read, a point that often is lost to people on the outside in the hubbub of daily concerns" - Else Christensen

By the example of our Folkmother, Else Christensen, we will also be going into prisons as we are able to. Some of our Gothar and other leadership, will be going into the prisons to hold study groups, lead blot, and encourage continued growth in the folk inside.

If you have a loved one who is incarcerated or know of someone who is Folkish and will benefit from this ministry, please contact us at prisonministry@runestone.org.

Or if you'd like to donate to this ministry, there's a donation earmark set up on our site here. The donations will be used to get small ritual items and books into the prisons and the hands of our Folk inside.

Updates to the AFA Store

Hi everyone!

Our AFA store at runestone.org/store is undergoing some improvements which aim to improve order processing time and the responsiveness to store inquiries. Merchandise is temporarily unavailable while we implement these changes and get our new store management trained. We look forward to launching new AFA merchandise later this year and to having some of the traditional stock available for sale in a few weeks.

In the meantime, the store is still processing orders for donations, fundraisers, and events. You can also get AFA merchandise by visiting our Hofs or events. If you have placed a merchandise order and need an update on it, please contact store@runestone.org for assistance.

Also, please know that if you need a new membership card because you have changed your membership level or have lost your membership card, please email store@runestone.org for a replacement card.

Baldrshof

Ancestor Altar

All folk are welcome to bring framed photos of their deceased loved ones to be placed on the ancestor altar at Baldrshof!

If you are unable to bring the photo, you are welcome to email a digital copy which will be printed, framed, and hung on the ancestor wall. We also ask that you provide your name, the name of your ancestors, birth and death dates of they are available, as well as a memory, story, or dedication about them. This information will be printed and placed into our book of ancestors kept next to the ancestor altar. Of course, the ancestor can remain anonymous, but remember that our immortality is in our names and stories being spoken by the folk!

Please contact Folkbuilder Jessie Shaffer for more info or to submit your ancestor pictures and information.

Food Pantry at Baldrshof

During our Midsummer festivities at Baldrshof, many families were fed thanks to the tireless work put into our monthly food drive. One of the most fulfilling aspects of our continued victories is our ability to give. Whether giving back to those within our own family or to those in the surrounding community, generosity has remained one of the biggest hallmarks of our Noble spirit.

Folkbuilder Cormag Àlainn

calainn@runestone.org

Holiday at Baldrshof

June 16 through 18 Baldrshof Folk gathered at our Hof to celebrate Midsummer in Murdock, Minnesota. We had delicious meals (special thanks to Stian Penner and Jamie Alainn for a great Saturday dinner of venison and beef), Fika, Blots, Sumbel, special Father's Day crafts for the children, a discussion on the Noble Virtues, and, of course, Frith with friends both old and new. The monthly Baldrshof Foodbank was also held during the event.

I was especially honored to have the opportunity to conduct Blots in one of our Hof's for the first time.

Additional thanks to Folkbuilders Ashley McStocker, Nate Erlandson, and Jason Gallagher for their help making everything run smoothly.

At Midsummer, the sun is at the peak of its life-giving brilliance, and we enjoy the long, warm days. As we appreciate the season, we can reflect on the truth that the Gods speak to us, and instruct us, through not only the Lore, but the lessons of nature, the cycles of the seasons, of birth, death, and rebirth. The cycle is eternal – creation, decay/destruction, and re-creation/rebirth. The message is one of hope, since we are aware that each of us, and our works, are someday subject to death and dissolution, but, just as Baldr returns from Hel, and the summer follows winter, so too will we live on, through our children and their children, and as a contributor to and part of the Folk-Soul. It is also a message of inspiration, as we believe that the greater our deeds, our accomplishments, and our self-evolution in the time we have on Midgard, the greater the quality of our afterlife will be.

Just as the wheel of the year continues to turn and cycle back it occurred to me that a parallel can be made with our Folk. No matter the challenges we face as a people, no matter how much time passes, we always keep coming back. Every year we return, better and stronger than we were before. As the cycle of the year spins around eternally so does our Folksoul rise and return.

Our next event will be Sigrblót taking place at the Hof on July 15th. We hope to see you there!

Reaping Midsummer Blessings

Hail from Illinois!

The Duffy household has had so much going on. I didn't get much time to spend with the Folk in June, but it was very productive. Our beautiful baby boy, Cullen Kenneth was born and has been a blessing to our Clans. I went into overdrive, and we are also having a change of environment upcoming this current month. So many changes, so many blessings. We thank the Gods!

We will hit the ground running for this upcoming month of Victory! And we will be busy with the Folk the second half of the year!

Warrior Finding Home

I am Chris McDowell. I served in the United States Navy until I was medically retired in 2015. Growing up I always said that I was going to join the Navy and travel the world, and that I did. What I did in the Navy felt like my life's purpose and then it felt like my purpose was ripped from me. Years have gone by trying to find meaning of this new life of mine, with thoughts that it will never happen.

Years later, Emily, my wife, bought us some DNA tests and after the results were received, I knew what direction we had to head in. We searched for somewhere we could go learn to practice the old ways and connect with our Gods. To find a place that carried the same values but differing views. Ultimately to discover a new purpose. I knew we had to go in this direction because everything else we “practiced” did not connect with us.

When we attended our first moot and Blòt in April 2023, the energy felt was exhilarating, I knew at that moment I was home. I knew that our Gods are real. I felt purpose to step up as an Apprentice Folkbuilder and help guide our folk home.

I have decided to try my hand at growing my own food. I started planting seeds a little late, however, they are doing wonderful. This year we planted sweet corn, sweet potato, sweet mint, peppermint, carrots, chives, cilantro, cucumber, broccoli, cauliflower, watermelon, pumpkins, strawberries, a granny smith apple tree and an Elberta peach tree.

Lately I have been hearing the saying, "It is better to be a warrior in a garden than it is a gardener in a war." This is true. I say this to all the warriors who have been to war, build yourself a garden. Sow some seeds, plant some seedlings, fruit, vegetables, herbs, a tree, and/or a bush. All that is native to your area. Talk to them, gladr the runes while caring for them, sing a song; not only will the plants prosper so will your mind. You will see the beauty of their growth from the positive energy you put in them. Build something to heal the mind that was torn apart to build the warriors we have become. It will only make us stronger. Hail the Warriors!

June Travels

June was a great month that I was looking forward to for quite some time. I had planned and prioritized to go to Odinshof for Midsummer this year, which seemed to all come together. I look forward to meeting new folk and old and getting to touch base with some elders again and I love getting to travel. I caught a flight out of Minneapolis into Las Vegas and got a rental car to drive up to Brown's Valley. Things didn't go to plan but I still arrived at the Hof, just a little behind schedule. I took a few moments and got out to meeting folk, enjoying the grounds, taking in the mural, altars, and sacred grounds of Odinshof. I thoroughly enjoyed my conversations with many folk, local leadership, and elders. I learned so much and enjoyed the conversations from an individual who taught me the term "Mary-sue", and so much more. I am so glad our paths crossed, sir! It was great doing a little Father's Day craft with a few of the children during the Midsummer weekend. The food, Blots, Frith, and friendships that were built that weekend are well worth the obstacles and sacrifices it took to get there. Any time spent with the McNallans is time well spent. I love hearing their stories and seeing their fire. Being present during their rituals and blots, are memories I hope to never forget. I also had the pleasure of meeting the Alsherjargothi's family. Getting to play with his daughter on the playground and sharing Frith crafting flower crowns and over a meal with Mandy made the visit that much more special.

After Midsummer at Odinhof, I still had a few days of vacation out west, so after many unplanned events, I was able to make it home in one piece. I was also seen off and greeted home by my kindred and the awesome Jason Gallagher- Can't get any better than that!

Sig Tyr kindred is hosting Sigrblot at Baldrshof on July 15th—reach out with any questions or if you need lodging options etc.

Looking forward to the following months with some great events and happenings!

Everyday Ancestors

Ever since I was a child, I have always loved antiques. Old books, pots and pans, furniture, typewriters, cookbooks, letters, you name it. Since joining the AFA and learning about the importance and power of our Ancestors, this has finally started to make sense.

I grew up, like so many of us do, disconnected from the history of my family. In the process of discovering more of my lineage and the people they were, I've been revisiting a line of thinking that's familiar to my entire life.

As I sit with my typewriter, I often wonder what its previous life was like. Was the owner a chain-smoking man trying to finish his novel? Was she a glamorous secretary working in a department store at the height of their popularity? Was the owner someone like me, a mom just trying to figure it out and learn a little more each day?

I wonder how many porkchops my great-great-great grandmother's pans have fried before the dinner I cook for my children, how many times one of us has burnt the bottom of a pancake, how many washes, how many curses over a broken egg yolk, how many triumphant dishes we thought we'd never be able to pull off.

I flip through my great grandmother's recipe boxes before a holiday, feeling that same time crunch she did, picking and choosing the perfect pies to show my family I love them.

I crochet with Cody's great grandmother's hooks, and I think of all the baby clothes, the scarves, and the blankets that kept the generations warm allowing them to bring him into my life.

I sit and I wonder these things often and it has dawned on me that that's Asatru. I am Asatru, intrinsically, through my very DNA. My mind wanders to the lives of long-gone strangers, to relatives I'll never know until my time in the Halls of the Ancestors because I am part of them, and they are me. One day, I hope my descendants and the Folk of the future will look fondly on what I have left and remember me as I remember my Ancestors.

Midsummer in Nebraska

Midsummer is a big deal around here. The town has a rich, proud Swedish heritage and puts on a huge festival every year. We decided to have everyone out for the day to celebrate and experience the foods and traditions that have been passed down for over a hundred years out here.

We met up at the nearby used bookstore, an old Carnegie library built in 1915. They had a huge selection of old books and items either depicting Scandinavian tales or traditional Swedish decorations. We all ended up walking away with some great finds.

Afterwards, we decided to take a stroll through the town square where they had dozens of vendors selling everything from popcorn and pork rinds to handmade gifts. Throughout the day, they had music and kids performing traditional Swedish dances, including the May pole dance.

For lunch, we went over to the senior center where they were serving traditional Swedish dishes. Potato bologna (also called Värmlandsskorv or Potatiskorv), Swedish dill potatoes (Färkspotatis med dill), Swedish meatballs (Svenska Köttbullar), ostkaka (a Swedish cheesecake), and lingonberry jam, alongside some traditional Swedish breads and cookies.

After lunch, we decided to head over to the grocery store to look at the Swedish gifts section. They had Dala horses, Yule goats, mugs, shirts, tomten, books with traditional Scandinavian tales, and children's books featuring the magical folk of our ancestors. It's always refreshing to see the culture and lore of our ancestors being so openly celebrated.

We decided to cool off back at the house, telling jokes, talking, and just enjoying the time we get to spend together. We even broke out the accordion for a bit, even though none of us knew how to play.

The town festivities wrapped up with a parade featuring floats, cars, trucks, and the fleets of the volunteer fire departments from all over the county. The kids loved it, partly for the candy being thrown out. Our youngest got so into it, she was about ready to start taking swings at the other kids!

Back home, I led everyone in a small Baldrblot before dinner. It was simple, but we wanted to make sure we honored the Bright One during the longest and brightest days of the year. We treated everyone to a summer family tradition: Summer Chili, which is just my wife's chili made in the summer. We've done it for years and wanted to include our folk in that tradition.

It was such a great day and spending it with our folk made it even better. Hopefully, we get to do it all over again next year!

June Up North

June was a very busy time for me between my work schedule and dealing with the loss of my grandfather, but I did have enough free time to meet with some great folk at Celts craft house in Apple Valley, Minnesota for some corned beef and cabbage, and good conversation!
